Information for contributors

Language. All contributions should be in English. Contributors whose native language is not English should have their manuscripts gone through by a native speaker before submission.

Format. Contributions should preferably be submitted as ASCII files on diskette, together with a printout made from your word-processing system. As regards other possible formats, consult the editors before submission of your manuscript.

Headings. The title of the paper should be followed by the author's name and academic affiliation. Sections and sub-sections should be numbered. Headings should not be singled out typographically (by boldface, capitalization, or the like).

Tables and figures should be numbered and titled (tables above and figures below). They should always be referred to by their number, not by expressions like 'see the diagram below' or 'in the following table'. Tables should be submitted in a separate file. Drawings, graphs, and other illustrations must be reproducible originals.

Quotations. Use single quotation marks, except for quotes within quotes. Long quotations should be indented and given without quotation marks.

Examples should normally be numbered and set apart from the text following standard linguistic practice. Short examples in the running text (words or phrases) should be in italics.

Notes should be placed at the end of the paper. References to notes in the text should be indicated as follows: 1, 2, etc.

References should conform to standard linguistic practice. References in the text should follow this pattern: Francis (1979: 110) defines a corpus as 'a collection of texts assumed to be representative of a given language, dialect, or other subset of a language, to be used for linguistic analysis'. The list of references at the end of the paper should be presented as shown by these examples:

Altenberg, Bengt. 1984. Causal linking in spoken and written English. Studia Linguistica 38:20–69.

Biber, Douglas. 1988. Variation across speech and writing. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Renouf, Antoinette. 1987. Corpus development. In J. M. Sinclair (ed) Looking up: An account of the COBUILD Project in lexical computing, 1–40. London & Glasgow: Collins ELT.

Tottie, Gunnel and Ingegerd Bäcklund (eds). 1986. English in speech and writing: A symposium. Studia Anglistica Upsaliensia 60. Stockholm: Almqvist & Wiksell.

Authors should be given with their full first names, unless they always use the initials themselves.

Reviews. The heading of a review should contain the information shown in the following example:

Roger Garside, Geoffrey Leech, and Geoffrey Sampson (eds). The computational analysis of English: A corpus-based approach. London: Longman, 1987. 196 pp. ISBN 0-582-29149-6. Reviewed by Gunnel Källgren, University of Stockholm.

Review articles should have a title, followed by the author's name and affiliation, and the information on the book(s) reviewed, as shown above.
